

BUILDING REGULATORY ENVIRONMENT

Build capability to navigate the building control environment

The building regulatory environment in New Zealand is complex. Having the knowledge of how to navigate it can help your team to work more effectively and improve how they work with customers.

Skills has developed a programme to meet the needs of a range of people working in a support role in building regulatory roles or for those in the building industry who would benefit from this knowledge. The programme helps to build knowledge of building legislation, regulations, Codes of Practice, and Australia/New Zealand Standards. Graduates will be able to apply theoretical and technical knowledge and skills to support the operation of, and interact with, Building Consent Authorities and Building Surveyor disciplines.

What are the benefits?

For the LEARNER

- Increased confidence in day-to-day work practices involving the Building Act
- Improved communication skills when resolving customer enquiries
- Further workplace learning can follow including New Zealand Diploma in Building Surveying (Level 6)

For the EMPLOYER

- Improved staff engagement and customer service
- Increased efficiency and accuracy in following processes through improved understanding of building regulations
- Your staff gain a nationally recognised qualification that is industry relevant and attests to the knowledge and skills they need and use in their workplace

What qualifications are available?

New Zealand Certificate in Building Regulatory Environment (Level 4)

This qualification is designed to enable people who are entering the building and/or building regulatory environment to gain an awareness of the context and structure of the building industry in New Zealand and develop the knowledge and skills to operate within a building control environment.

Learners will learn about the building regulatory framework and how to apply the relevant technical and administration aspects of the building regulatory process to support approval processes.

Graduates will have the skills and knowledge to operate effectively in a support role within the building industry.

How are the qualifications achieved?

Assessment Resources

Skills can provide assessment resources to use in conjunction with the training your organisation is providing. The assessment will be allocated to a national assessor who will work with your learners to complete the assessment tasks and report the result to Skills.

What other solutions does Skills offer?

The Skills Group offers a wide range of solutions to build your team's capability. This includes a range of short courses that are delivered in partnership with IMNZ.

PROBLEM SOLVING & DECISION MAKING

As you advance in your career, the problems you need to solve get bigger and more complicated and the decisions you need to make carry more weight.

This interactive and practical course has been designed to help busy professionals quickly absorb and apply problem-solving and decision-making concepts.

It will guide you in taking a more strategic approach to issues and as you work through tough challenges.

EFFECTIVE TIME MANAGEMENT

This one-day comprehensive short course is designed for those who feel overloaded and out of control as workloads and performance expectations increase whilst resource levels diminish.

Learn how to do the right things in the correct order and do them better! It will show you how to master your workload through the application of proven practices.

TAILOR-MADE SOLUTIONS

We deliver off-the-shelf and bespoke solutions to the challenges facing today's highly complex, competitive and diverse environments.

Our solutions are designed to engage your people, shape underlying attitudes, and drive productivity.

Tailored to your needs, this may include in-house workshops, coaching and mentoring sessions, or developing e-learning for your business.

Why choose us?

At Skills, our focus is to build New Zealand's workplace capability. We help organisations and their staff grow competencies, improve performance, and build leadership capabilities. After decades in the industry, we know about effective workplace learning.

Ready to get started?

The team at Skills are happy to discuss your needs, the wide range of solutions we have available and how we can empower you to reach your business goals. Call us today on 0508 SKILLS (0508 754 557) skills.

Grow by growing others